Our Experience in the EUdemos Project

Participating in the EUdemos project was a wonderful experience, full of learning, discovery, and personal growth. From the very beginning, we understood that it was much more than a school assignment — it was an opportunity to open ourselves to the world, to discover new realities, and to understand how European institutions work and what active citizenship really means.

The most rewarding aspect was working with students from other European countries. Communicating in English, a language we do not usually use, was both challenging and gratifying. It helped us overcome our initial fears and strengthened our confidence in expressing our views. Sharing a common language made us feel part of a larger community, where differences become sources of enrichment rather than obstacles.

Our visit to the European capital and its institutions was an unforgettable experience. Walking through the corridors where important decisions are made helped us appreciate the values that guide the European Union: cooperation, democracy, solidarity, and respect. We realized how essential young people's contribution is to building a more participatory and conscious Europe.

We are grateful to our school and to the EUdemos organizers for giving us the chance to live such a remarkable educational and cultural experience — one that has enriched us linguistically, culturally, and personally, and that will continue to inspire us in the future.
